The sundry-civil appproriation bill was then taken up in Committee of the Whole. Mr. Sayers briefly explained the provisions of the bill, and Mr. Cannon (Republican), of Illinois, a member of the Committee on Appropriations, expressed his regret at the fact that the committee had not seen best to make more generous appropriations for certain public works, especially for the light-house establishment. With this general debate closed, and the bill was considered under the five-minute rule for amendment.

said at the Japanese legation, in this city, that the forces were probably landed to protect the citizens of these countries who reside there from an uprising of Chinese, and not in the expectancy that Chinese, and not in the expectacy that their interests would be jeopardized through an attack on the place by the Japanese. The foreign residents of Che-Foo would have no fear from the Japa-nese forces, and, further than that, it is nest forces, and, turner than that, it is not likely that the Japanese will make an attack on the port. Che-Foo is a treaty port, but, according to the authority mentioned, is the least important of these, not not excepting Chin-Kiang. The Japanese might desire it for a base of supplies, but even this is unlikely, as there are other harbors along the coast better adapted for the purpose, the Che-Foo anchorage being an open roadstead and especially unprotected.

As to the probabilities that the Japanese might desire Che-Foo for the purpose of landing troops there preparatory to an attack on Peking, it was stated that the Japanese had already a sufficient force in China for all purposes contemplated at present.

At the last meeting of the Committee on Light an impression was made on some members that the Richmond Rail-way and Electric Company had been ap-proached with a view of finding out what way and cheeric conjugate what it would charge for furnishing electric lights on a five-year contract, and that no satisfactory offer could be obtained. I desire, therefore, to say that I answered the question in a general way, and stated to the member of the committee who approached me that I thought a reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent, would be made on present prices if a five-year contract could be closed with the city, and thought only a general answer could be expected, as the committee was not in a position to make any contract at all. The lighting company has been lighting the city streets at prime cust, and it is willing to continue to do so. The present rates were determined after the cost of the service had been calculated as closely as possible. It is willing to do so in the future. The cost of the service can be fixed by an arbitration committee if the city desires it. With service can be fixed by an arbitration committee if the city desires it. With present conditions, the cost is the same now as two years ago, but with a five-year contract and the introduction of machinery which would cheapen the lights, the company could materially reduce the costs of production, and it is perfectly willing that the city should get the benefit of it.
